Tax Bill Holds Prospects For Cut Next Year

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise tax bill holds prospects of a cut next year in the federal 10 per cent tax on telephone charges and in rail, bus and airplane tickets and taxes.

Senate and House conferees Friday approved the compromise bill which continues Korean wartime corporate income and excise tax rates for another year. These taxes drop to pre-Korean levels at midnight Tuesday unless a new law is enacted.

The conferees sent back to the Senate and House a bill which would, in its immediate effect, simply continue taxes without change until June 30, 1960. Then a decision on changing tax rates would again come before Congress.

Conferees abandoned Senate-passed proposals which would have (1) repealed the 4 per cent stock dividend income credit, (2) repealed the entire 10 per cent communications and passenger transportation taxes and (3) increased federal welfare assistance grants to the states by 142 million dollars a year.

The House bill was limited to continuation of the 52 per cent tax on corporation income and present rates on automobiles, auto parts and accessories, cigarettes, liquor, wine and beer.

In compromising their differences, Senate and House conferees proposed cutting in half the passenger transportation tax effective June 30, 1960, provided Congress does not vote to continue the full rate before then.

And they agreed to the repeal of the 10 per cent communications tax as it applies to local phone charges, also effective June 30, 1960. The tax on long distance phone tolls and other communication charges would not be affected.

The compromise, because its proposed tax cuts are a year off, would have no effect on the President's closely balanced budget for the 1960 fiscal year starting July 1.

The compromise bills, to be called up Monday in both House and Senate for expected approval and transmission to the White House before the Tuesday midnight deadline.

Threatening Note Sent to French Chief

ROME (AP) — Police hastily canceled French President Charles de Gaulle's program today and whisked him through guarded streets after receiving a telephoned threat that he would be assassinated.

De Gaulle was attending a reception at the French Embassy, police received an anonymous phone call warning that he will never get to his noon luncheon alive.

After the reception De Gaulle was to be taken from the embassy to an official luncheon with President Giovanni Gronchi and Prime Minister Antonio Segni.

Police denied the call to a public telephone in a bar near the embassy. They rushed there and were told that among persons who had used the phone at about that time was "an Italian accompanied by a dark-complexioned foreigner."

There are many Algerians in Italy, and sentiment is strong among them for the nationalists fighting French rule in Algeria.

Two Killed in Accident at Paragould

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Two elderly women were killed and seven other persons—one an infant—were injured in a two-automobile collision near here today.

The dead were Mrs. Henry R. Ware, 61, of the rural Fifty Six community near here, and Mrs. Marjorie Davis, 70, of Trumann. They were passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Ware's son, Leighton Ware of El Dorado, which collided with one driven by Willie Today of Balch.

Leighton Ware, his wife, Roberta, and a 21-month-old daughter, Morna, were injured and taken to a Jonesboro hospital. Two other Ware daughters, Dora, twin of Morna, and Jackie, 4, were released after treatment.

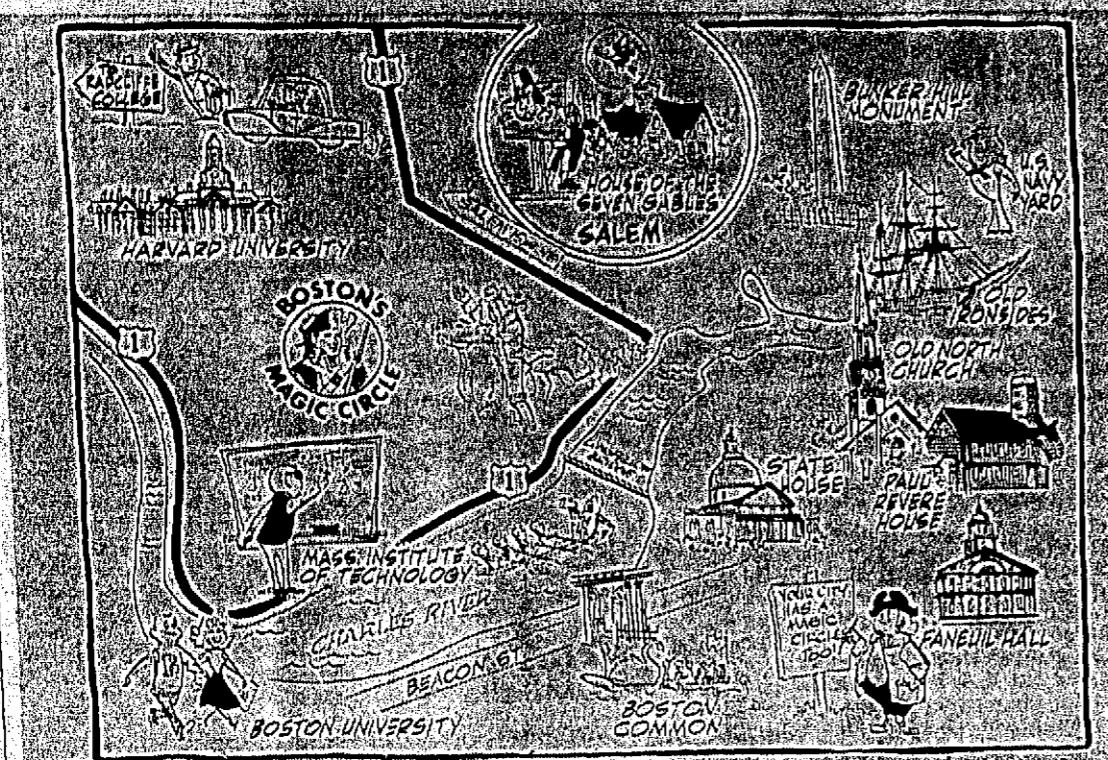

Today and a passenger, N. L. Kirker, 31, also of Balch, were taken to a Paragould hospital.

Boston Has Historic Appeal of Paul Revere, 21 Colleges, and a Hustling Business Center

HOME OF HISTORY AND CULTURE is Boston, famed for its key part in the Revolution; Beacon Hill; 21 colleges; Old North Church and the start of Paul Revere's ride; Faneuil Hall, symbol of Liberty and free speech; Bunker Hill; Old Ironsides docked in the U. S. Navy Yard; Boston Commons and its historic boats; the State House designed by Charles Bulfinch; the Magic Circle leads on to Salem, Charles River to M. I. T., Harvard University and then to Salem, memorable for the witchcraft trials and the House of the Seven Gables.

Editor's Note: This is the 30th in a series of suggested highway tour maps which the Hope Star is publishing weekly. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

"Baked beans, banned books, and 'one if by land and two if by sea'."

If you have heard these catch phrases and think they sum up the Boston story, be prepared to marvel when you visit this remarkable city for the first time.

Boston and nearby Cambridge and Salem offer a personal pilgrimage into history surpassing any in version—wide-screen and in color. Here also is a concentration of colleges and universities, 21 by student count and many of them world famous. Over and above these things, Boston is a bustling city of commerce, proud of its past but not content to sit back in a rocking chair for fond reminiscing.

We started our Magic Circle by driving in from Connecticut on the beautiful new Massachusetts Turnpike, and then on Commonwealth Avenue along six miles of handsome mansions that made me think of high button shoes. Worthy of extra minutes here is a drive through the stately and impressive campus of Boston College. From Cleveland Circle you enter Boston on fabled Beacon Street.

Glass World

Our first stop was at the Monitor Publishing Building (1 Norway Street) for a new view of our old world, from the inside out! The Mapparium is a 30-foot glass globe with continents and oceans painted in vivid colors. You walk inside along a glass bridge and look up—not at the sun or stars, but the North Pole. So perfect are the acoustics of this unique structure that a single small hiccup echoes and re-echoes, as one of my boys discovered to his acute embarrassment. A quick cure was effected.

Boston Common is a good place to start a tour into history. This 50-acre park was set aside in 1634 as a cow pasture, and by law some cattle must be brought in to graze one day each year. Graceful, foot-pedal-powered boats carved like swans and canoes in the adjoining Public Gardens are top summer attractions. The State House, designed by Charles Bulfinch, is across Beacon Street.

The black iron fence around Louisburg Square stands like a fortress to prevent office buildings from spreading down the prime slopes of Beacon Hill. Here you will catch glimpses of purple window glass and try to understand the people who received shipment of defective glass and used it anyway, unexpectedly lending distinction to the lovely old homes.

Freedom Trail

You can spend hours—or days—by following the Freedom Trail markers (blue with red and white stripes) to the most historic places in the heart of Boston. Starting from "Brimestone Corner" on Tremont Street, you'll arrive at the Old Granary Burying Ground to see the graves of Mother Goose, Benjamin Franklin's parents and other Colonial notables. Next, King's Chapel, the worshippers of British officers during the Siege; Old South Meeting House where irate citizens gathered to plan the Boston Tea Party; and the Old State House where John Hancock was inaugurated as first governor. Here you are on the ground which was the scene of the Boston Massacre, first bloodshed

Garment Plant Needs Women Workers Now

LITTLE RICK (AP) — Nelson Cox, executive director of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, today said he had supplied application blanks and registration forms to county clerks throughout the state for use in the new motor boat regulation act, which becomes effective next Wednesday.

The 1959 law is designed to enforce safety measures and help officers police the expanding number of boats on Arkansas' lakes and rivers. It will apply to all craft whose motors have more than 10 horsepower. All such boats will have to be registered.

Cox said he was recommending that owners be given a reasonable adjustment period, "to be concerned with the act and comply with its provisions."

Among other considerations, he said, it probably would be physically impossible to have all boats registered between the July 1 effective date and the July 4 weekend, and holdover, which for many persons will start on July 3.

The Game and Fish Commission is charged with primary responsibility for enforcement of the act, but the State Police and sheriffs also have jurisdiction.

The new law—Act 453 of this year's legislative session—provides for a number to be placed on any affected boat initial licensing fee will be $2 with a renewal fee of $1 annually.

All boats must have certain specified safety devices including life preservers, proper ventilation systems and lights if operated at night.

The law reiterates and modernizes provisions against operation while under the influence of intoxicants or narcotics. It specifies that boats used in water skiing must be operated in a careful manner. There are other provisions for rendering assistance in case of accident and for reporting any accident.

More serious violations may be punished, on conviction, by as much as a $500 fine and a six-month jail sentence.

Cox said the law was passed in response to a federal statute which says that in states which do not adopt proper regulatory acts by mid-1960 boating will be supervised by the Coast Guard under federal law.

Provisions of the act were discussed at a meeting of State Police, sheriffs and county clerks with Cox and other members of the Game and Fish Commission staff here Tuesday. Cox said about 150 persons attended the sessions but that many were interested private citizens rather than officials.

Other sources indicated Long would call a special session of the Legislature. Some of the governor's pet bills failed in the recent fiscal session after he was flown to Galveston, Tex., for psychiatric treatment on orders from his wife and other members of the family.

Jones contended the governor actually was a free man when he walked into the courtroom.

Minutes earlier, the State Hospital Board passed resolutions—at Long's direction—asking the governor to remove State Hospital Director Jesse Bankston and Dr. Charles Belcher, acting superintendent T. Madeline, from office.

This, in effect, Jones said, freed Long from the hospital since the new acting director appointed by the board, Dr. J. H. McElroy, had the authority to release Long.

Jones said she merely dismissed the petition from a writ of habeas corpus since the board's action removed the necessity of holding the hearing.

Nixon, Tito Rate in Men's Fashion

LONDON (AP)—Two new pin-up boys took a bow today in the world of men's fashion—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Along with Fred Astaire, Rex Harrison and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. they were among the 11 best dressed men of 1958 selected by Tailor and Cutter magazine, British arbiter of masculine elegance.

Nixon, said the magazine, finds a neat line between the wigwam shapes of U.S. drape and the ludicrously tight togs of U.S. ivy leaguers.

Tito won a citation because "He's the ritziest dictator in the business."

Others on the list were millionaire Nubar Gulbenkian, Jr. David Eccles, president of the British Board of Trade, the young Duke of Kent, the photographer Cecil Beaton, and British Gen. Sir Frederick Browning, husband of novelist Daphne du Maurier.

Governor Long Agrees to Rest For a Week

BY MARY ANITA LASETER

Next weekend the people of the United States of America will celebrate the wonderful freedom and privileges which are synonymous with "The Fourth of July." But on such an occasion millions of celebrants will be driving about the country and automobile accidents will occur with increasing frequency.

"Not a pleasant thought, you say? No, but it is the truth, and the Arkansas Bar Association has prepared answers to a question too many of us are forced to ask: What should a person do when involved in an accident? Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

1. Stop. Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.

2. Render aid. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid; (2) Stop bleeding; (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both; (4) Do not move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.

3. Protect the scene from further damage. You may be liable for damage to approaching drivers, unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night, have someone turn his headlight beams on the wrecked vehicles.

4. Call an officer. Policemen, highway patrolmen, sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.

5. Gather information... write it down. Don't trust your memory. Don't guess—be specific. Measure skid marks. Step off distances. Be sure to obtain names and addresses of witnesses. You are required by law to exhibit your driver's license to the other driver—and he must do the same.

6. Be careful what you say. Even if you feel you probably are not to blame, it is best to make no admission. You may learn later that the other driver was equally at fault, or more so. Emotional comments can be misconstrued by others, you may be justified. Whatever you say, make it factual.

7. See your doctor if there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.

8. Consult your lawyer immediately. The sooner your lawyer is brought into the matter, the better he can advise you and protect your rights. He can obtain statements from the witnesses while their memories are fresh, and do many other things to insure that the true facts are preserved. Get your lawyer's advice before giving any interviews or statements to investigators or adjusters for the other side.

9. Inform your insurance company promptly. Failure to do so may void your policy.

10. Report the accident to the revenue department. This is required by law if there is any injury, death, or total damages exceeding $100.

An official accident report form may be procured from the police, sheriff's department, state police, or Revenue Department.

It is hoped that the above information will not have to be put into use by you; but to be smart, memorize these auto accident rules. Be smarter still, and drive carefully.

On the Fourth of July, let Death take a holiday away from you.

Long's on a rampage, said one of them, who asked not to be identified. "He's damn soon about people turning their backs on him."

The governor's first target was State Police Superintendent John Nick Brown. State police assisted when Long was taken into custody after walking out of a New Orleans hospital last week and helped take him to the Mandeville hospital. He fired Brown and appointed E. P. Roy, former state police chief to replace him.

Other sources indicated Long would call a special session of the Legislature. Some of the governor's pet bills failed in the recent fiscal session after he was flown to Galveston, Tex., for psychiatric treatment on orders from his wife and other members of the family.

The present school board later rescinded the action and offered him and the others new contracts.

School officials said Christophine already had moved to Wilmington and mailed his resignation from there.

A live opened the folder to the first account of the discovery of Phineas Redd's body. It was dated August 13. His eyes skipped down the column. He had been discovered late last night after drifting for at least four days on the Barren slope. And it was discovered the seventh. Alex felt the scalp prickles. That would place the date of the murder on August 13, the same date of Kathie's death.

Three very important "firsts" in the history of the United States took place on the small island of Jamestown, Va. In 1607, the English, led by Capt. John Smith, made their first permanent settlement in America there. In 1619, the first American representative government assembly was held there and later the same year, the first Negroes in America were landed there.

In the heart of Germany, stretching for some 37 miles between the Weser and Elbe rivers, are the Harz Mountains noted for their old castles and picturesque scenery and for the canary birds and hand-made cheeses which are exported from the region. Several peaks in this most northerly of German ranges rise to more than 4,000 feet, the average is about 4,000 feet.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE
